TWIN FALLS - A Twin Falls businessman was prevented from boarding a jet here Monday after he said he was armed with a grenade and explosives. Today the remark was dismissed as a "bad joke" by airport officials:

The man, Ron Victor, Twin Falls, was prevented from boarding Hughes Airwest Flight 775 at about 9 p.m. Monday after Airwest Supervisor Max Hatch overheard the remark as he was taking tickets.

According to Twin Falls Airwest Station Manager, Paul Shoaff, "He said he had a grenade and explosives with him and said You'd better search me.

At that point Supervisor Hatch told Victor he could not be permitted to board and asked him to return to the terminal. Sheriff's officers and PBI agents were called to the airport where Victor was questioned. Today both FBI and sheriff's officers were tight-lipped about the incident. Sheriff Paul Corder referred questios to the FBI, while the FBI referred questions to the unavailable US district attorney in Boise.

Both enforcement agencies said, however that no arrest was made.

"The incident last night involved a casual remark by a boarding passenger. When the person on duty heard the remark, he had to take action to avoid even the most remote possibility of a bomb being taken aboard the plane, Shoaff said.

This is the only such incident at the Twin Falls airport during Shoaff's one-year tenure there "In larger airports, it happens more often, you know, when a fellow has one too many drinks and isn't thinking clearly. It has to be checked into because of the safety of the other passengers," he said.

Wednesday night in Twin-Falls Tom Spaulding told members Twin Falls that he and several enlisted men had set up camp war in Vietnam. A car of six persons stopped at the gate and began fighting the protesters.

Spaulding said he was 'slugged several times," and pushed to the ground. "One of the men had boots on and started kicking me.'

During this time the base security police did nothing to stop the action, even though they were only 50 feet away, according to the veteran.

The first man to attack Spaulding, a Michael Grimes, Spaulding and his supporters are presenting a written report of the action to Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho for the liscrimination of the military against its-personnel, paricularly enlisted men.

Spaulding was one of several men speaking out against the Vietnam War during the meeting.

Welcome Change

This could be the year when some honest accountability begins to occur in campaign financing. It would be too much to expect the whole picture to be totally available for public view, but what has happened so far is encouraging.

First was the new legislation designed to limit campaign spending and encourage more information about sources of contributions. How effectively it will control spending must await final campaign totals, but it already has prompted a number of the major candidates to reveal detailed lists of contributors.

Something else has happened to serve as a warning that it is not only the candidates who are under scrutiny for activities in political campaigns, The conviction of W. A. "Tony Boyle, United Mineworkers president, on charges that he violated the 1925 Corrupt Practices Act by illegally funneling nearly $50,000 from the UMW treasury to various political committees was a refreshing revival of that law's enforcement.

Boyle's defense that he was doing nothing more than his predecessor, the late John L. Lewis, had done, was no defense. But it did emphasize that haphazard and even illegal practices relating to campaign financing had occurred in the past because of lax law enforcement. If that pattern comes to an end this year, so much the

Safe Driving

All new cars manufactured since the first of the year have sensors located under the front seat cushions, If the driver or passenger side is occupied and the car is put into gear without the seat belts being fastened, a loud buzzer sounds and a light flashes on the dashboard.

The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety reports that a spot check it made of 11 new-car dealers in the Washington area found that salesmen at nine of the agencies were willing to show prospective buyers how the federally required, warning devices could be circumvented or disconnected.

Only two salesmen encouraged seat belt usage, but both also offered to help buyers who wanted to defeat the system.

Granted that the seat belt buzzer is a minor safety feature and may be nothing more than an annoyance to those who refuse to wear seat belts. But the fact that some people will actually go so far as to disconnect the device rather than simply buckle up and shut it off does underscore in a small way a point made by Franklin M. Kreml at the recent annual meeting of the Traffic Safety Association of

The nation cannot rely on vehicle improvements alone to reduce highway accident losses, he said. As a young man Kreml worked his way through law school as a traffic policeman. He joined Northwestern University in the 1930s and eventually established its renowned Transportation Center-In 1970, he served as chairman of the President's Task Force on Highway Safety, which last year made its report to the nation under the title, "Mobility Without Mayhem." He is now president of the Automobile Manufacturers. Association.

Kreml argues that in addition to federally, required vehicle regulations, a broad-based, balanced safety program must be carried on at the state and local where the legal responsibility, authority and manpower are.

Among other things, he calls for greater emphasis on improved driver licensing to realistically test the true competence of applicants under real driving conditions improvement of substandard roads and more uniform traffic laws and controls.

But how far, he asks, are the people willing to go in support of safety programs that might lead to widely restricted licensing? Are they willing to be stopped on the highway to submit to chemical breath tests for alcoholic intoxication? How much selfdiscipline are they willing and able to exercise?

Pined Out

Noise consciousness may be a relative annoyance, but the time comes in almost everyone's life when the urge for silence becomes almost overwhelming. Like at the end of a hard day when it is possible to sit down and relax for a few minutes. It is in those rare moments of contemplation in blissful solitude when Denmark's traffic minister deserves a quiet thanks. That worthy rejected what in other places might have been a readily approved request to introduce nonstop, piped-in music to Denmark's state-operated trains.

'We're surrounded by enough noise as it is," commented the minister, Jens Kampmann. 'Travelers should be allowed a bitof peace after a long day's work.

Sitting Thoughts

Mr. Spectator has thought up a very good way to stop these aerial hijackers.

We have in mind those who demand a parachute as part of the deal. They will never know the difference until they pull the cord and then it will end up the way these things should end up.

Notice where Gov. Andrus (who is now sojourning in Japan) has asked for a list of senior citizens in the state. Which proves it is getting closer to the election than we think what with taking steps to update the old mailing list.

We live within what we believe is the city limits of Twin Falls. Yet, last Sunday morning we went out on the balcony to pick up our paper and what did we see? A couple of horses grazing in the yard next door There was much evidence on the ground that they had been there overnight, too!

Mr. Spectator points out that today is reality and tomorrow is only a possibility. Also, you can tell when fellows are getting on the downhill side of life - they start to walk to work, ride bicycles, or practice the run and or walk technique

Was amused at a statement Governor Maddox made. A few weeks ago he ap peared in a new hairpiece. Because he was bald it was very startling. Well, just a day or two ago he appeared without the hairpiece. He said he wasn't going to wear it anymore. He said he spent as much time in front of lik mirror as his wife - and that when he got all through it didn't feel good at all. Se he's hald again. Which makes me wonder if it wouldn't be cheaper to buy a hat?

ew cancer vaccine

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) - Two University of Chicago pathologists said today they have made a discovery which could lead to effective cancer vaccines Doctors John Coon and Robert Hunter said they are trying to get the body to reject cancer much as it rejects foreign substances such as kidney or heart grafts..

In experiments on guinea pigs, Coon said, he and Roberts made the body respond to foreign substances "which-it usually rejects by manufacturing antibodies through a cellular type of immunity that can effectively reject

What the pathologists actually discovered was not how to produce an immunity to cancer, but how to get to the area where cellular immunity comes from - the paracortex region of the lymph node.

They chemically joined several materials and produced a protein, which, when injected into a guinea pig, produced a strong cellular im-,

The body usually repels foreign substances by manufacturing antibodies, a complicated molecule which circulates in the blood, but which has not been effective against cancer.

With cellular immunity, however, a living cell repels the invading materials and doctors believe this immunity can be used to reject some

Many human and animal cancers can be rejected by cellular immunity in much the same way the heart or kidney grafts are rejected."

"These experiments provide the first rationale for the production of semi-synthetic cancer vaccines

Many workers have identified and isolated cancer antigens foreign substances which cause antibodies to be produced," he aid. "But attempts to use these antigens to treat tumors have usually resulted in the production of antibodies which make the turnors grow faster. We hope that our work can be extended to tumor antigens in such a way as to make them effective in treating cancer.' Coon presented the research in a paper he was scheduled to read at the annual meeting of the Federation of American CHICAGO (UPI) - United Airlines said Tuesday it would conduct a full-fledged investigation into all security procedures surrounding the hijacking of one of its airplanes Friday.

The airline said it would cooperate with all government. agencies undertaking an inquiry nto the incident.

The statement was issued by United's President, Edward E. Carlson, in response to an announcement by the Federal Aviation Administration that it would investigate United and Pacific Southwest Airlines, both of which had been hit by hijackings in the last week

"We are cooperating fully with the Federal Aviation Administration, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other concerned agencies in all swapping another 10,000 acres aspects of the investigation

Carlson said United's own investigation would involve a full review of ground and in flight security procedures.

Carlson said United was the first dirline to institute antihijack procedures in 1970. He said that system, using either magnetometers for weapon detection, the profile identification system developed by psychologists of the FAA or a combination of both, had been substantially strengthened since

"We have great confidence in the FAA hijack deterrent program and United's security system as well as their combined ability to safeguard our aircraft terminal facilities, cargo move ments and the more than 70,000passengers we carry daily," the

How to get deep fried flavor and crispness from your oven.

Just pop Deep Fries in your oven. Deep Fries come out looking and tasting like they have just been deep fried. That's because, unlike other frozen french fries, Deep Fries are sprayed with a thin coating of vegetable oil. So when Deep Fries are prepared in the oven, the oil melts, bubbles, sizzles and actually fries each individual fry full of tasty, deep fried goodness.

Try Deep Fries. Why bother with a messy deep frier when you can get deep fried flavor and crispness from your oven?

This correspondent first visited South Vietnam in 1962 when American advisers just were beginning to shoot back against Communist Vietcong attack:

Analysis

Madam Nhu, sister-in-law of President Ngo Dinh Diem, busily was taking what joy there was out of life for the South Vietnamese with her tie laws and the American embassy was peddling a slogan which declared:

"Win with Diem"(pronounced "Dzim".)." About this time also an American admira was advising critics of the Diem regime among American newsmen to "get on the team."

Not far from the "Parrot's Beak" where the Cambodian border juts into South Vietnam "Operation Sunrise" was uprooting South Vietnamese peasants from the villages and transporting them to so-called fortified hamlets. The peasants didn't like it and many deserted.

Three TF officials decline regional airport appointment

declined appointment to a "review board" involving plans for a new regional airport in county sterport board chairman, turned thumbs down on the suggestion. It had been, made in a letter received from George Forschler chairman of the Southern Idaho Regional Airport Interfat Board Burley.

Chancey, who brought up the subject at a meeting of the city-county board Tuesday noon said "the voters of Twin Falls County, by a wide margin, voted to stay out of a regional airport setup and because of this I can see no good coming by our serving on any review board in this connection.

Our interests involve the Twin Falls City County Airport and so far as I ain concerned, we have a regional airport here right now. The voters and the taxpavers of this county in no uncertain terms plotted our course in this new airport concept when they voted by more than three to one to not become a part of it. in addition, I feel that none of us would have any spare time from the many duties we now perform. If we should have spare time then it a could be well spent for upgrading the local field," Chancey said.

Milar and Powel concurred with Chancey They did suggest, however, that if the regional board approved then it might be possible to name someone from the three units they represent to sit in as an "observer" at interim board sessions. The observer would serve as liaison between the two boards but would have no power to participate in suggestions.

Recently, Powel pointed out, the city an county commissioners and the airport board had approved an "intent to cooperate" letter being sent to the regional group. Without such support the Federal Aviation Administration said a site and project study being funded partly by federal funds could not be undertaken. The counties of Jerome, Cassia, Minidoka, Lincoln' and Gooding are joined in funding the project with the federal government.

The FAA expressly pointed out that the cooperation, of Twin Falls County would involve no expenditure of Twin Falls money but rather that it meant Joslin Field records and city and county expenditures over the year would be made-available to the consultants for study. The Twin Falls groups approved the items the FAA requested be in the study. Any records, date or other information requested by the consultants or the FAA will be made available through city-county airport manager Harry Merrick.

In his letter, Forschler had urged Milar to accept chairmanship of the committee and Chancey the vice-chairmanship. Other members proposed by Forschler were John Clark; Cassia County commission chairman; C. F. Chatfield, Lincoln County commission chairman; Wayne Hollenbeck, Minidoka County commission chairman; John Van Orman Jerome County commission chairman; Ben Glauner, Gooding County commission chairman; John C. Fox, Blaine County commission chairman, and Clayton Stewart, an official of the Sun Valley Corp.

Blaine and Twin Falls were the two counties voting to remain out of the regional setup when vote was hold earlier this year.

Trevino plans for Masters

Trevino has it all figured out now. He is going to change his whole plan of attack when he returns to the Augusta National Golf Club for the 1973 Masters Golf Tournament.

The peppery Merry Mex, who just completed his first Masters in two years in a tie for 33rd place with a 12-over-par 300, revealed his post-Masters thoughts in a taped interview from Pensacola, Fla., where he is preparing for Thursday's Monsantó Open.

"I'm going to change my plan hook," he told the interviewer

"I feel I really knew what I pave to do next year at the Masters. By howing the ball, which is an old Bobby Jones trait, I feel I can shorten the course by some 300 yards.

Treving said he had worked it out with the Faultless Rubber Co., to build him a driver which is suited to a hook

"With the gentle fade which I now use, even when I hit a good shot the ball fades into the fairway bunkers on the right," he said. "Augusta is banked like a race track and it takes wristy hooker to play it."
Trevino also said he

Consider the virtues of the Jim Beam half gallon:

(1) The World's Finest Bourbon Since 1795 costs you less per drink.

(2) There's a handle on it. Easy to carry, easy to pour.

(3) There's less chance of running out at the wrong time; less need to run out for more. Altogether a sensible way to enjoy the Bourbon that's been a family art since 1795.

Red tide declared contained

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Adm. Thomas H. Moorer was reported Tuesday to have declared that Hanoi's invasion of South Vietnam had been "contained," but left the impression the United States was considering air strikes deeper in the Communist North Moorer briefed the House Armed Services Committee on Vietnam privately for two hours as a Defense Department spokesman commended South Vietnam's performance and stated that the situation had become, "rather static,"

Neither Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, nor Jerry W. Friedheim, the Pentagon's chief spokesman, would predict an end to the latest escalation of the fighting. Legislators who attended Moorer's briefing emerged to report that the United States has three options in the event the present level of support proves inadequate:

-Expanding U.S. bombing raids, once the weather clears, Vietiam such as Haiphong

- A South Vietnamese com mando invasion of the North. -Intensifying the present U.S. air and firepower support for South Vietnamese troops

manufacturer to testify, urged day that their best exhaust the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to delay for one federal standards while sharply year the exhaust pollution limits mandated by law for 1975

Echoing Monday's testimony by Volvo of Sweden, Volkswa-gen and AMC said the control developed for 1975 models fall far short of lasting' the required 50,000 miles.

"Our best effort to date has failed to meet the requirements after 4,000 miles, John F. Adamson, AMC vice: president, told an EPA hearing.

Volkswagen representatives said their devices not only wearout but also "increase fuel consumption by at least 20 per cent over 1974 models, decrease engine performance by 10 to 25 per cent and adversely affect *driveability by causing hesitation during acceleration and cruise."--

The 1970 Clean Air Act requires 1975 models to reduce carbon monoxide and hydrocart bon emissions 90 per cent from 1970 models, with 1976 models cutting nitrogen oxide emis sions 90 per cent, too.

The law empowered the EPA to delay the standards one year if manufacturers prove they cannot meet them despite 'good faith'' effort.

TWIN FALLS - Somewhere today in Twin Falls County there are 53 children living in foster homes They are there for any of several reasons, but for some reason all are unable to live at home. Often they are removed from their homes by the Department of Public Assistance acting through the courts under the Child Protection Act or, parents may ask that the children be removed and placed in the care of the DPA.

with the regional office of the DPA, said the number of children in foster homes is rising, but not appreciably. The number hovers closely around 50 at most times, he said.

This week is National Action for Foster is Children Week and proclamations designating i as such have been signed by President Richard M. Nixon and Idaho Gov. Cecil-B. Andrus.

In referring to foster children in his proclamation, the President said, "They need tove and their best hope often rests with foster

Love and a great deal of understanding are important factors in successful adaptation by both foster parents and their foster children.

vorst time for this adjustment, Hopper children living in a familiar environment find themselves at odds with parents and the world

And foster homes which will take teen-agers are hard to come by, Hopper said.

Often an inadequate parent is able to cope with a child while he is in his early years, but when the child reaches the age of independence it's too difficult for both parent and child.

Take the case of Allen, a real child living in a typical foster home in Idaho. Allen's story, while true and typical, nevertheless has a special problem which case workers always find in even the most typical situation.

Allen has just turned 15-and has been in a foster home just over a year. His chance of returning to either parent is poor.

His mother, married at 16, was left without a husband before Allen's birth. His father, while four years older than his mother, was stillunable to adjust to the responsibilities of marriage and fatherhood.

Allen's father saw his son only once, when Allen was an infant. While Allen carries his father's name, he has no personal relationship with his father!

From Allen's earliest remembrance his mother's bitterness toward his father was passed on to him, and he repeatedly heard what a bad person his father was.

During the ensuling years Allen's mother remarried twice and bore two other children by her third husband, whom she divorced when

He was required to babysit his younger brother and sister so often his resentment toward them and the chore grew and grew and the relationship between he and his mother continued its steady deterioration

When Allen was in junior high school, his mother remarried again. Having been deeply disappointed by three fathers, Allen refused to enter into any kind of relationship with the new head of the household. He began staying away from home rather than face the conflict there until he was finally y was 3...

picked up one night wandering the streets. His mother had not reported him missing and expressed little interest in trying to cope with him

His past year in foster care has not been an easy period. He has had to adjust to a way of life foreign to him during his first 14 years.

At first he was reserved toward his foster parents and still finds it hard to call them 'Mom" and "Dad", but he did quickly make friends with their teen-age son.

At first he expressed deep hatred toward his real mother, but these outbursts are now infrequent and he has managed to visit his family

His foster father enjoys taking the two boys on ishing and hiking trips and Allen has been learning to ski. It is on these occasions that Allen is most relaxed and more responsive.

Last Christmas Allen became upset for no apparent reason and went to his bedroom to avoid being seen crying. None of his foster family attempted to pry into the reason. He seemed to want it that way.

Most foster children are placed-outside their home for six months to a year. But, in Allen's case, the outlook for the "average" separation period does not look bright.

Sharon, age 5, is in a foster home because her mother is ill.

Plays are not too bad for the child, but she has a great many questions primarily centering around why she cannot be with her older brother and sister, and why she can't live with her "real Morniny and Daddy" like other children do.

She remembers her mother well, but her father only vaguely because he left when she

Hopper said "it's too much to expect a 5 year old to understand the relationship between her father leaving and then a year and a half later her mother leaving."

She knows, he said, her mother "went to the hospital to get well;" but she doesn't understand the depression or that its onset was created when her father left.

The events which occurred just before Sharon became a foster child are fading, but she still remembers hel mother crying a lot. Less remembered is that there was little housework or cooking done in the house. This to a 5-year-old, isn't nearly as important,

Hopper said, as "when will I see my Mom

·How much happier Sharon would be if she had been placed in a home with part of her familiar family

Babies are the most popular foster children Hopper said. Some infants in the care of the DPA are available for adoption and some older children, too, are being placed for adoption if the parent relationship is terminated

However, if the crisis state in the household can be resolved, the primary move by the DPA is to get the child back into his own home.

The children, too, seem to want to go back home, no matter how bad things were. They tend a forget the bad times and comember the good Hopper said.

DEAR ABBY: May I add my two cents worth to the discussion of tipping beauticians?

The only beauticians I ever tip are those in beauty schools because they don't get paid for their work. In reguar beauty parlors, the beauticlans are paid to perform a professional service, just like clerks in stores are paid to wait on customers. You don't see beauticians tipping store clerks, do you?.

Prices in beauty shops are plenty high for what you get. Yet when you pay for a shampoo and set, if you want a really GOOD shampoo, they soak you extra for a "cream This-just burns me up

DEAR ABBY: I have been divorced for one year. My wife and I were married for all years and have six children. Now my ex-wife has made me a proposition. She says she will marry me again on the condition that her boyfriend can visit her any time he wishes-on a friendly basis. My question: Is this normal? And would it make a healthy marriage if I were to agree to it?

DEAR A. J. B.: If you have no objections to sharing your wife with her boyfriend, your marriage would be so "healthy" it would outlive both of you. Is it normal?

I wonder why a normal, well-adjusted male would not want a son? Do you think he is afraid of competition? NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Don't assume anything. Perhaps he really wanted a son, but didn't want his wife to feel that she let him down if she didn't produce one. And it's possible that he really preferred girts.

Auto gets 'smashed'

A LARGE TRUCK loaded with sand overturned on this automobile filling it with sand. The driver, Mrs. Phyllis A. Britt Raleigh, N. C., escaped serious injury by falling to the floorboards, but her legs were pinned beneath the steering wheel. She had stopped at an intersection and was hit after the truck had sideswiped another auto. (UPI)

Wendell asks cut in budget

WENDELL — Wendell school trustees asked Supt. Lawrence LaRue to cut his proposed budget of $508,517 by $23,859.

The cut proposed by the trustees would eliminate the five-mill maintenance and operations levy which must be approved annually by school patrons.

Supt LaRue said that he will try to make the cut, but the only possibility he can see is not hiring two additional teachers, one at the second grade level and one for the junior high. Without these teachers, each elass will have 30 or more students, because of recent enrollment increases.

condition of the U.S. winter wheat crop ranged from "fair to excellent" on April 1, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

The department's monthly crop report said prospects were much better than last spring in both Texas and Oklahoma where this spring's dry weather is not as serious as last year's drought. The report added, however, that "a soaking rain would be extremely beneficial from the Great Plains to the Pacific Ocean.'

The report said a "dry area" as of April 1 reached from southern California eastward into Texas and Oklahoma. The report added production of early spring fresh vegetables is expected to be 5 per cent below last year with smaller crops of tomatoes, snapbeans, lettuce, onions, sweet corn and cauliflower offsetting increases for broccoli and cucumbers.
